

Easy-Read Manifesto Labour Party

Easy-Read Manifesto

Labour Party

Jeremy Corbyn is the leader of the Labour Party. If they win the general election, he will become Prime Minister. This is what the party promise they will do for the United Kingdom (UK).

Economy and energy

Labour say it is very important for people to have jobs and to help the environment.

They will pay lots of money for better energy which does not make pollution. They say that this will make more jobs for people and make the environment better.

Brexit and other countries

Labour will give people another chance to say if they want us to have Brexit and leave the European Union. They want everybody in countries across the world to get on.

Easy-Read Manifesto

Labour Party

Nationalisation

Labour want to stop businesses being the only ones who are in charge of things that people need.

They want water, gas, electricity, trains, the post and the internet to belong to everyone. They think this will be better for people, for the environment and to reduce pollution.

Transport

Labour want to spend more money so there are lots more trains and buses for people to use. People will own the trains and buses and there will be lots more jobs and less pollution.

Labour will help people ride their bikes more. They want more trains to take things we need to the shops instead of big lorries so there is less pollution.

Easy-Read Manifesto

Labour Party

The environment

Labour will spend lots of money to stop pollution so we can all breathe clean air. They will plant lots of trees and help wild animals and insects.

They will help farmers so that everybody has good food to eat. They also want us to recycle more and be the best at it in the world.

Health and care

Labour want a special new National Care Service – a bit like the National Health Service (NHS). The NHS has doctors and nurses to look after our health but Labour want their new service to have support workers who work with the NHS.

They want the new service to help people have better lives in their own homes.

Easy-Read Manifesto

Labour Party

Education

Labour want to make a new National Education Service. They want to spend lots of money on schools and teachers to help children learn more, have a happy life and get a good job.

Labour say that better learning helps us all to understand each other so that we get along with everyone.

Labour want new schools for babies and very little children. The schools will look after children so that mums and dads can go back to work in their jobs.

They will help everybody who wants to learn new things be able to go to school or college, no matter how old they are.

Easy-Read Manifesto

Labour Party

Police and security

Labour are very worried that there is too much crime and want us to have more police to help stop it. They want the police to work with all the people in the community so that everybody gets along and is safe.

Justice

Labour say that the prisons are too crowded and that they don't stop people being bad.

They want to give some criminals a second chance and not always send them to prison. They want these criminals to pick up litter and clean up communities instead.

Labour want to help people have a better life so that they don't commit crimes, steal things or take drugs.

Easy-Read Manifesto

Labour Party

Councils and communities

Labour will give local councils lots of money to spend on better libraries, parks and leisure centres. They will help shops and pubs to stay open so that people have places to go.

Labour will make sure that councils have enough money to help old people and disabled people as part of their new National Care Service.

Poverty and inequality

Labour want rich people to pay more money in tax to help people with less money. They want to build more houses and they want to change the rules so that people can stay in their homes as long as they like.

Labour want everybody to have a job they can keep. They want everybody to have enough time to rest as well as doing their job and they will help old people to have enough money to live.

Easy-Read Manifesto

Labour Party

Immigration

Labour want people from other countries to come to do jobs which need to be done.

They want to help people who are being treated badly in their country to be able to come to this country to be safe.

Disabled people

Labour will make sure disabled people have the same chances as everyone else. They will help disabled people get a job.

They will make sure disabled people have enough money to live and get the help that they need.

We hope you find our Easy-Read translations of the key political party manifestos useful. If you have any feedback, contact us on communications@unitedresponse.org.uk

About United Response

United Response is a national charity providing a range of tailored support for adults and young people with learning disabilities or autism across England and Wales. Our vision is a society of equal rights and access where disabled people have the opportunity to live the lives they want to lead.

A core part of our work is ensuring those with learning disabilities or autism are informed – both about the news and world which surrounds them, but also about the choices they have when it comes to voting. Everyone should have the opportunity to take up their legal right to vote, but too few people with learning disabilities are doing so.

Our award-winning Easy News publication is the first-ever news magazine designed to be accessible for people with learning disabilities, while our Every Vote Counts campaign provides them with easy information on politics and how getting involved in local and national elections can directly affect their lives.

Registered charity no 265249
With special thanks to Photosymbols.

www.unitedresponse.org.uk

LinkedIn